

DID YOU KNOW?

COOL FACTS ABOUT THE PROFESSION

Accounting and Auditing

Go Way Back...

WAY
WAY BACK!

The accounting and auditing professions go back 5,000 years or more! Legend has it that wealthy folks, wanting to keep track of their possessions (cattle, stores of grain, gold ornaments, etc.), hired scribes to keep records of their lists of possessions as they bought, sold, or traded them. From time to time, a count of possessions would be made and compared to the records maintained by the scribe. Any unexplained losses would be a signal that something was amiss and worthy of investigation.*

The systems and demands have gotten more sophisticated, but the need for reliable accountants and auditors has not changed. The public company auditing profession is a great way to gain insights into the business world and enter a career where you will always be in high demand.

Oh, the accountants you know, the places they go.

You may not think you know any accountants or auditors, but they are everywhere! Look at the places accounting took these people:

J. P. MORGAN. This famous financier and banker began his early career as an accountant on Wall Street. Before forming his own company in 1895, Morgan got his start as an accountant in 1857. He ended up forming one of the most influential finance companies in the United States, J.P. Morgan, and Co. Morgan's company is now known as J.P. Morgan Chase, the largest bank in the U.S.

You could be the next J.P. Morgan!

ARTHUR BLANK. The owner of the Atlanta Falcons and co-founder of Home Depot began his fascinating career as a senior accountant after graduating with a degree in Accounting and Business Management from Babson College in 1963. The philanthropist is estimated to be worth around 1.3 billion dollars.

You could be an owner of a football team!

HAVE YOU EVER WATCHED AN AWARDS SHOW ON TV AND THOUGHT, WHO COUNTS THOSE VOTES?

WHAT IF you get an accounting degree, but later in life find yourself interested in other things?

No big deal! Accounting, with a focus in auditing, provides skillsets that will always be valuable in any career you choose. Keep reading for how some other well-known accountants used their talents in other ways.

KENNY G. The highest-selling instrumentalist and globally-known saxophonist was also an accountant. Before Kenneth Bruce Gorelick sold 75 million records worldwide as a musician, he graduated magna cum laude with a degree in accounting from the University of Washington. Kenny G has said that his background in accounting helped him make wise financial decisions with his substantial income (such as being one of the first investors in Starbucks), as well choosing the right people to help him launch his music career.

GWEN JORGENSEN: She went from accountant to No. 1 triathlete. She was the 2014 and 2015 International Triathlon Union (ITU) World Triathlon Series Champion. She also was a member of the 2012 Olympic Team and will represent the United States in the triathlon at the 2016 Summer Olympics in Brazil. Jorgensen joined a public company accounting firm after receiving a graduate degree in accounting. "She was totally enjoying the people she worked with and the work that she was doing." Gradually, though, Jorgensen worked fewer and fewer hours while training more and more. Gwen argued that "her work provided a nice counterbalance to all the training. She liked using her brain."

CHUCK LIDDELL. The Ultimate Fighting Championship fighter and former Dancing with the Stars contestant earned his degree in Business and Accounting at Cal Poly University-San Luis Obispo in 1995.

Eventually, Liddell chose a different path and went on to become a UFC light-heavyweight champion. Liddell has said, "Numbers have always come easy for me...When I'm fighting, I'm calculating everything, keeping track of their punches and setting them up."
